Flexible cable protection tube KabuflexRplus75 sw Material plastic, material quality polyethylene (PE), surface untreated, color black, version flexible, shape corrugated on the outside, smooth on the inside, inner diameter 62mm, outer diameter 75mm, Kabuflex R plus type 450 is a flexible cable protection tube made of PE, halogen-free, in Composite construction with optimized green inner skin for fast cable insertion. Another feature is the improved stability, which is achieved through the increased use of materials. It is corrugated on the outside and has a transparent double socket (sandproof) attached to one side. This cable protection pipe is used as a protective or empty pipe for high pressure loads, e.g. under streets, squares, in the ground, etc. Special double sockets connect the pipes sand-tight (SD), with a profile sealing ring a watertight connection (WD) up to 0.5 bar is achieved. The Kabuflex R plus is supplied with a pull cord. The advantage lies in the high compressive strength. Special double sockets connect the bends and pipes sand-tight (SD). A watertight connection up to 0.5 bar is achieved with the profile sealing ring WD. DIN EN 61386-24 Minimum compressive strength 450N Temperature resistance -5°C to 90°C
